

As I write this on Wednesday night Joseph Stalin has been removed from the Russian scene, either by paralysis or actual death, and the world ponders an ancient military riddle — whether the soldier-dictator we knew may not be preferable to the unknown Russian who will succeed him.

That it will be one man, not a triumvirate or council, and that he will be someone the West doesn't know much about, is my guess; for that is the pattern of Soviet power politics — and the pattern Stalin followed in his own career.

The Soviet state was founded by a couple of veteran Bolsheviks, Lenin and Trotsky. Lenin was the actual chief of state, while Trotsky was commander-in-chief of the Red armies. They were joined unobtrusively by a young and ambitious South Russian named Joseph Stalin, who took the rather obscure post of secretary of the Communist party. Yet when Lenin sickened and died in 1924 it wasn't his old partner, Trotsky, who drew the winning ticket. Stalin's political control of the party nerve center proved more powerful than Trotsky's Red armies — Stalin became chief of state and Trotsky barely escaped to Mexico with his life.

This was the scenario for the great Russian political movie back in 1924 — and I don't see any reason for changing the script in 1953. The new leader in all probability won't be any of the "front men" with whom the West is acquainted; he will likely be some wire-puller from deep in the heart of the Communist party machine — as was Joe Stalin in his own heyday.

Getting back to the military riddle that affects our own fortunes and lives, I don't go along with the idea that a change in Russia is for the worse. Stalin proved able to hold the explosive Soviet setup together, but the odds are against Russia being lucky enough to find two such leaders consecutively.

Each change Russia makes in her top post heightens the risk of collapsing the whole governmental structure. The death of an American president, a British prime minister, or a French premier, in no wise damages the country itself because these are self-governing nations in which power is divided among many men and the authority of the chief of state himself is sharply limited. But not so in Russia, where the chief of state holds life-and-death authority — where a good man may keep the crazy structure of government functioning, but a bad one will certainly collapse it.

Each change, therefore, in the top post reminds us that time is running out for the adventures who overthrow the tyranny of the Czars only to give Russia an identical tyranny under a different name.

Whether the domestic crisis in Moscow means peace or war for the rest of the world no man can say. All we know is that the hands of the clock have suddenly advanced in Russia — and time seldom deals kindly with the treacherous and violent style of government which Stalin fashioned and personally directed for nearly 30 years.

Hempstead county's own state representative, Talbot Feild, Jr., drew a laudatory biographical sketch in Wednesday's Arkansas Democrat. Inez MacDuff did the piece, complete with a two-column picture of our Hope man.

Talbot, as you know, can talk as indefatigably as your editor can hammer a typewriter, and the legislator was in good form Wednesday — Mrs. MacDuff's piece stretched out for two columns.

It was a credit to Talbot, Hope and Hempstead county — and our thanks go to Mrs. MacDuff and the Democrat.

Gen. Van Fleet Favors Smashing Allied Offensive

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet appeared today to favor a smashing Allied offensive which would drive the Communists far back into North Korea and permit South Koreans troops to take over a shortened battlefield.

This pattern began to emerge from his testimony to congressional committees regarding his views on the best way to achieve victory in Korea.

The retiring former Eighth Army commander — who testified before two House groups yesterday — was called for another discussion of Korea fighting today before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.), committee chairman, announced the first part of Van Fleet's testimony would be open to the public and the latter part would be heard in secret. This was the same procedure used by the House Armed Services Committee yesterday.

Van Fleet told this House group he believed victory could be won in Korea without necessarily spreading the war. He assured the fighting will end only with a military decision.

Teachers May Get $5 Weekly Pay Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Francis Cherry revealed this morning that he is sponsoring an amendment to the proposed new minimum school budget law to give Arkansas school teachers a salary increase of $5 a week.

The governor told his news conference that he and the author of the bill, Rep. L. H. Autry of Mississippi County, had agreed on the amendments.

The governor said his plan, which would revise the distribution of state money to local school districts, would provide an average increase of $250 a year for each teacher.

World Ready to Forget Stalin But Wonders Who Will Pick Up the Plot Against Peace

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The hammer and sickle have fallen from the hands of Joseph Stalin.

The "great comrade" has come to twilight on his long, bloody road to power.

It is superb irony that this man whose words and actions frightened men in history should end a helpless paralytic, unable to move or ask for a drink of water... a complete prisoner of a small group of men in whom he held no final trust.

What terror must seethe in his darkened brain as strange shadowy figures probe his numbing body in Moscow's official medical inquisition... what panic in his mind as his thickened tongue refuses to say what he wants it to say... Maybe he wants to give an order... Won't anybody can't anybody hear him?... Maybe it isn't an order at all... Maybe the great marshal doesn't want to talk about a battle plan... or purge a satellite country... Perhaps at last he wants to mumble a prayer... or to ask what day it is... or maybe his memory wanders in the lost fields of yesteryear and he is inquiring for Lenin... or Trotsky... the dead friends of his dead youth... Whatever he wants to say, it no longer makes any difference... He shares in solitude the fate he inflicted on millions of other human beings... Now he, too, is a slave... and like all the others, death is for him the only way out.

At this writing the Moscow government reports him still alive. But true or false, it makes no real difference. Dead or alive, Comrade Stalin is again a stranger

Body of Negro Found on Road Near Fish Lake

The body of a 62-year-old Negro, Floyd Riven, was found yesterday on the Fish Lake road, south of Fulton along Red River. The body was found by Raymond Neal who lived nearby.

Investigating officers, Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Cook, State Investigator J. H. Porterfield and Coroner Rufus Herndon indicated death was due to natural causes. There was no sign of violence.

Okays Removal of Tax on Seed and Fertilizer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill removing the sales tax from feed, seed and fertilizer won unanimous Senate committee approval today.

The committee, Senate Judiciary "A" made its decision in a brief executive session after hearing more than 20 witnesses speak for the bill in a 90 minute long public hearing.

Not a single witness appeared in opposition. The bill already has passed the House and now goes to the Senate floor for action.

Supporters of the measure argued that the 2 per cent sales tax on feed, seed and fertilizer constituted double taxation because the agricultural products derived from use of these commodities also are subject to the levy.

Scientist 'X' Acquitted of Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg, the so-called "Scientist X", was acquitted today of charges that he lied to congressional investigators when he said he was never a Communist.

Federal Judge Alexander Holtz off told the jury of eight men and four women that he respected their verdict but did not agree with it.

The jury debated more than seven hours — excluding an overnight recess — before dismissing the perjury charge against the former University of Minnesota professor.

After the jurors returned to court this morning, they were ready with their verdict in about 15 minutes.

Weinberg stood tensely erect as the jurors file in. When the words "not guilty" were uttered by the jury foreman, Weinberg's attorney gave his coat a tug and smiled. Weinberg also smiled happily.

Rep. Harris in Plea for Use of Hope Port

The Star received from Rep. Oren Harris the following copy of a letter which the Fourth District congressman wrote March 3 to the Defense Department in behalf of the big former military field here which is now the Hope Municipal airport:

Honorable Charles E. Wilson
Secretary of Defense
The Pentagon
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Secretary: As Secretary of our Defense establishment you have the primary responsibility for our national security and the expenditures of the major part of our Federal budget. You, with President Eisenhower, are committed to an economy program in connection with our national defense activities. We know you are making every effort to reduce expenditures where possible.

Hempstead Convict Is Paroled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Parole Board yesterday granted paroles to 51 convicts, including four long-termers, and recommended that the governor commute the sentences of two others.

The parolees, with county, date and length of sentence and crime, include:

Robert Jefferson, Hempstead, April 4, 1929, two years, uttering forged instrument.

Fight Boils in House Over Bauxite Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bitter fight broke out on the floor of the Senate this morning over an attempt to amend a bill increasing the severance tax on bauxite.

Sen. Ellis Fagan of Little Rock offered the amendment which would postpone the effective date of the tax increase for two years. The Fagan amendment provides for the appointment of a committee to hire an outside engineering firm to survey Arkansas' bauxite deposits to determine what a fair tax rate on the ore would be.

"I represent the aluminum industry," said Fagan. "I can remember when this state was in debt and something had to be done. We needed industry and the aluminum industry was one of the things that made this state what it is today."

Fagan said now the aluminum industry is firmly entrenched in Arkansas and "you want to put the squeeze on them because they can't get out."

Adults to Meet and Talk Over Classes

All adults that are interested in enrolling in a class of their own choosing are asked to meet in the Library of the Hope High School at 7:30 p.m. Monday night, March 9. Negroes will meet at the Yerger High School.

Interest has been expressed for a course in Business Education which will include one or more of the following: Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping and Foreign Languages. These courses will be offered if enough adults are present Monday night to enroll and if an instructor is available. Other courses will be offered if the demand is sufficient. Everyone who is interested in taking advantage of this opportunity for training in worth while fields are urged to be present at this first meeting so that classes can be started on that date.

The American Red Cross has offered an instructor for a First Aid course, in the new methods of giving care to the wounded. To develop safety rules that will help decrease accidents in the community. To learn the new methods of artificial respiration to revive an unfortunate friend who has stopped breathing because of an accident.

There has not been too much interest shown to date, and it is doubly important for interested persons to attend the Monday night meeting. If the program is to be put into operation there must be a number of people who desire the program.

Ike Willing to Meet Successor Half Way Also

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told a news conference today his administration has neither misgivings nor optimism about Russian intentions in the light of Prime Minister Stalin's grave illness.

He described the administration's attitude as one of very definite watchfulness.

The President said that as of this moment he would be willing to go half way to Russia for a meeting with whoever succeeds Stalin. He added that the conditions would be the same as those he imposed last week in expressing his willingness to meet the Russian leader halfway.

Senate May Rush Envoy to Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders considered urgent action on the nomination of Charles E. Bohlen as ambassador to Russia today to speed him to Moscow to make an on-the-scenes analysis of developments growing out of Stalin's grave illness.

Speculation on an imminent struggle for power inside the Kremlin and the possible dangers presented for the West lay behind a movement by some senators and the State Department to get Bohlen on his way. He is a leading Soviet expert who speaks the Russian language, who knows the Russian people and their leaders.

This ringside reporting on events in Moscow would be of the highest value. This country has not had a top flight Russian expert in the White House since he has devoted his life to the study of the Soviet Union.

Senate May Rush Envoy to Moscow

WASHINGTON (UP) — The two men billed as the leading candidates to succeed Stalin are generally believed to be unfriendly toward the United States.

Most experts agree the chances are slim that either Georgi M. Malenkov or Vlachoslav M. Molotov, both deputy premiers, would represent any improvement over the man who has guided Russian policy for so many years.

In fact, there is some evidence they would not be nearly as conservative — and this could spell trouble for the United States and the free world.

Malenkov, 59, has terrific driven harshness and ruthlessness of the manner that have brought him along Stalin's path at a more rapid rate in recent years. Little is known of his participation in foreign affairs since he has devoted his life to the study of the Soviet Union.

All Around the Town

By The Star Staff

Hope is getting a lot of publicity regarding its airports but even the most hopeful citizen can't see the possibility of transferring that bomber base here from Little Rock. But something could result that would put the huge local port to use. Certainly there is no love lost between the rest of the state and its capitol city. And if Little Rock did lose the base the general comment would be "It couldn't happen to a better city."

First Lt. William E. Baayz arrived home yesterday from Japan after spending five months in the medical corps on the central Korean front. He reports his biggest thrill when his plane circled and landed at the San Francisco airport. But we bet one just as big came when he was mustered out of the service shortly after at Camp Custer, Michigan. However, he is tied up in the reserve for three years.

Medical Sources Believe Death Matter of Hours

By EDDY GILMORE
And THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Joseph Stalin's heart is failing, the latest bulletin from his physicians discloses, and the announcement of his death may be only a matter of hours away.

A medical bulletin tonight, for the first time, mentions a failure of Prime Minister's heart. Previous reports had centered around brain hemorrhage, stroke and disturbances in breathing and blood circulation.

Tenacious bulletin — the first from the 10 doctors since a stroke felled Stalin in the Kremlin Sunday night — acknowledged that condition had deteriorated today.

Satellites of Russia Also Await Fate

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

VIENNA, Austria (UP) — Some 70,000,000 people in Soviet satellite countries whose fate hangs on decisions made in Moscow, wait anxiously today for word on Stalin's condition.

Radio broadcasts in the Communist peoples' democracies of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, mostly to reading of the second doctor's bulletin on the Soviet premier's illness.

There was no indication in any of the broadcasts that any of the national Communist Party leaders had left their countries to go to Moscow.

The broadcasts reported "tense" rallies and demonstrations at which participants read swearing new allegiance to Stalin and wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mao Could Head World of Communism

LONDON (UP) — When Joseph Stalin dies there may be two separate struggles for succession. One is the immediate matter of who is to rule the Soviet Union, the other — and historically perhaps more important — centers on who will take Stalin's place as the world's ideological master of Communism.

Stalin was two halves. One was the temporal garb of naked power in Russia itself. The other, the more spiritual and powerful, even more powerful, half, was the most religious nature — that of god of atheistic Communism.

During his lifetime, Communism was a religion.

Insemination to Be Discussed

How to achieve the betterment of mankind from artificial insemination was the topic of a lecture given by Dr. R. G. Gilmore, DVM, at the Hope High School last night. The lecture was given at the request of the Hope High School and was the first of a series of lectures on the subject of artificial insemination.

UP GOES THE POWER OF EVERY BUICK.

World's newest V8

Television treat — the BUICK CIRCUS HOUR — every fourth Tuesday

Special Super and Roadmaster!

More than pride that makes a man want a lot of horsepower beneath the hood of the car he owns.

For the real point in reaching record horsepower and compression ratios goes beyond sales per hour. It steps up performance and economy in normal driving.

That's what Buick engineers did when they upped the power and compression of each 1953 Buick — SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER — to the highest figures in Buick's fifty-year history.

In the SUPER and ROADMASTER, they put a new kind of V8 Engine — first passenger car V8 with 2.5 to 1 compression, and a long list of other major engineering advances.

For the SPECIAL, they redesigned the famed 263 Fireball 8 Engine — gave it shorter flame travel, faster firing, higher horsepower and compression.

And to these spirited engines they coupled the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive* that adds flash-fast, quiet getaway to utter smoothness.

Just to give you an example of what all this means: The 1953 Buick SPECIAL with Dynaflo can beat the mighty 1952 Roadmaster on getaway — can reach 30 mph (when the law allows) with a combined speed and jerk-free smoothness no other car can equal.

Of course, there's far more to these new Buicks for 1953 — some seven dozen new features alone.

But why not come in and see for yourself that these are the greatest Buicks — and the greatest values — in fifty great years.

LITTLE ROCK (A) — The Arkansas Senate, for the third time since 1874, voted yesterday to call a convention to draft a new Constitution for the state.

as many as 20 changes that need to be made, that alone justifies this bill."

Long's proposal, which didn't arouse a debate on the floor, provides that 112 delegates would be elected to the convention in a special election next June 10.

Each county would have the same number of delegates as it does representatives, and there would be two additional delegates from each congressional district — a total of 112.

Each delegate must meet the qualifications now required of House members, and they would receive $20 per day for their services.

An appropriation of $100,000 to finance the convention is provided by Long's bill.

The Constitution drafted by the convention must be submitted to the voters not less than 60 days nor more than 120 days after the convention adjourns. Provisions of the new document which the delegates feel are "unusually controversial" may be submitted to the voters separately.

Arkansas' Constitution was adopted 70 years ago on Sept. 7, 1874, and was ratified by the people the following Oct. 30.

In 1917, the General Assembly ordered a constitutional convention to draft a new code, but the people rejected the convention's document by more than 15,000 votes.

Another attempt at modernizing the Constitution was made in 1931 by the Legislature, but then Gov. Harvey Parnell vetoed the bill because of the state's poor financial condition.

The Senate also voted yesterday to authorize the installation of an electric roll call machine in the Senate and air conditioning equipment in both chambers of the Assembly. The bill, authored by Sen. Edwin Cain of Malvern, was defeated Tuesday, but only two senators voted against it yesterday.

The bill appropriated $100,000 for the job, and provides that the money be raised by adding a quarter of a cent per pint and a half-cent per fifth tax on liquor. The bill, approved, 50-2, goes to the House.

The House spanked one of its more highly vocal members, Rep. J. A. Gipson of Saline County, by sending to the Senate a bill to increase the tax on mining bauxite.

Gipson instituted a one-man filibuster against transmittal of the bill, which was passed by the House Monday.

The House heard him out and then executed a parliamentary maneuver which insured that the measure would go immediately to the Senate.

In the Senate, the bill ran into opposition. It was read the first time and then Sen. Ellis Fagan objected to immediate second reading, usually a formality.

By one vote the Senate refused to override the Fagan objection. As a result second reading was delayed for at least one day.

The bill would set the tax on bauxite at 25 cents to $1.25 a ton, depending on grade. Presently the levy is 10 cents a ton with no distinction between grades.

Crisp, Fair Weather Spreads Across U. S.

Crisp, fair, but blustery weather covered much of the nation today, with only a fringe along the Canadian border getting snow and light showers were reported along the South Atlantic coast.

Eden Arrives in U.S. for Vital Talks

NEW YORK (UP) — British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arrives aboard the Queen Elizabeth today for vital talks with the Eisenhower administration on diplomatic problems suddenly thrown into new light by announcement of Soviet Premier Josef Stalin's serious illness.

The liner carrying Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler with their wives, was scheduled to dock at 12:30 p. m. EST. After a press conference aboard ship immediately before docking, Eden and Butler planned to leave immediately for Washington.

Eden, it is known, had been planning to urge that Prime Minister Winston Churchill be invited to attend any possible meeting between President Eisenhower and Premier Stalin. But the possibility of such a meeting faded during the night with news of Stalin's illness.

Word from London before Eden's party sailed a week ago was that British were putting emphasis on the economic than on the diplomatic aspects of Eden's mission. It was borne out by the fact he was accompanied by the chancellor of the exchequer.

Rep. Harris

ties are being constructed under our national defense program. You propose a huge development in the vicinity of Little Rock, Arkansas, as well as other places in the South west. You have just received a letter from the Honorable John L. Wilson, Mayor of Hope, Arkansas, with reference to the utilization of the airport near that City which cost several millions of dollars in World War II. My people want to know why this expensive airport, which is idle, is not being utilized in this program, thereby saving millions of dollars of the taxpayers that would be necessary to construct new facilities out and out.

This airport was constructed in World War II to accommodate the heaviest of our bombers. It is intact and has been kept up by the City of Hope. It has three concrete runways, 150 feet wide and more than a mile long. There is available a huge brick and steel building with suitable equipment, aprons and taxi ways. The City owns 2000 acres in this airport and is offering to make it available to the Government for utilization without cost.

The City of Hope and community could and will absorb all the personnel that will be necessary at such a bomber base as you propose to construct in the Southwest. Mr. Frank Edwards, nationally known commentator, Mutual Broadcasting Company, has given this nation-wide publicity and appropriately so, because of the saving of millions of dollars to the taxpayers of the country. I understand he has discussed it with your Air Force people and the only excuse given for not utilizing the air base is the question of the community not being able to absorb the necessary personnel and their families. I should like to remind you that in World War II this community absorbed and took care of 5000 people in the construction and operation of the Southwest Proving Ground. It can and will do it again with, I believe, much less outlay than will be required at some other bases you propose to spend so much for the needed facilities. This fine sturdy and well constructed airport was built became known as Stalinism. All schisms from Stalin dictates were split from Stalinism. Such was the now defunct Trotskyism. Such now is the Titoism of Yugoslavia. Stalin's Russian successor may be G. M. Malenkov or V. M. Molotov or L. P. Beria or someone else.

But will that Russian receive the fanatical adoration of Communists the world over? Russia's prestige in world Communism might give him a head-start in the race for ideological leadership but there are contenders outside Russia too.

Tito may seek the mantle, but his land is small and his world following smaller.

There are many who raise the starting possibility — startling to Western onlookers, that is — that time will prove an Aesop-like next ideological fountain-head of world Communism. The man they mention is Mao Tse-Tung, dictator of Red China, a man who made his own revolution, and won it.

Communism in driving toward its goal of world domination and an "ideal" society sometimes changes its course abruptly to meet changing pressures, and it needs a theoretician of great prestige who can explain away the sudden switches and make it all seem consistent.

Mao could fill the bill. He is an

It called his status "exceedingly grave."

It was perhaps noteworthy that this third bulletin was issued only 12 hours after bulletin No. 2. A full 24 hours passed between the first and second bulletin.

This third bulletin was issued at 8:30 p. m. and reported Stalin's condition up to 4 p. m. (7 a. m. CST). It described signs of heart failure.

The bulletin read: "The treatment is at present directed mainly toward combating the irregularities in breathing and blood circulation, in particular of the coronary one." This would mean the circulation of blood through the heart. A leading medical authority said the bulletin meant Stalin soon would be dead, if he was not already so, and said it was in effect a description of fatal heart failure.

The physicians bulletin described Stalin's blood pressure as having decreased as he grew increasingly pale.

By EDDY GILMORE
And THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Joseph Stalin was reported still alive but in a coma early today. The second bulletin, from his 10 doctors, said the Soviet leader's condition "continued serious."

The bulletin issued at 2 a. m. (6 p. m. EST, Wednesday), disclosed the brain hemorrhage that struck down the 73-year-old leader of world communism Sunday night affected the trunk section of the brain, in addition to the left sector where the bleeding occurred. His heart action, blood circulation and breathing continued "gravely impaired," it added.

In New York, competent medical sources said on the basis of the bulletin — first report on Stalin's condition since the initial announcement Wednesday of the illness — gave the Russian chief "little or no chance of recovery." A leading Canadian neurosurgeon said in Montreal that if the medical report was correct, the Soviet leader would now be dead.

"Towards the end of March 4," the bulletin declared, "the state of health of Joseph V. Stalin continues grave. The patient is in a state of deep unconsciousness, nervous regulation of breathing as well as cardiac activity continue to remain 'greatly impaired.'"

As this latest report on the condition of their leader was announced to the saddened Russian people, the Communist party newspaper Pravda, in a front-page editorial, called for "unity of the party and the people" in these difficult days.

The government's Council of Ministers (Cabinet) and the Communist party's Central Committee already had announced they were "guiding" the party and the country, but there has been no indication of a change in leadership.

agile intellectual who has contributed much to Communist literature and he commands plenty of prestige in the Red world.

tion here as to how government or party leadership would be affected by Stalin's incapacity.

Although unquestionably tense and nervous, Moscow's citizens went about their normal tasks as the morning broke with snow falling from grey, heavy-laden skies and a biting wind whipping out of the northeast.

Factories stores and offices were open as usual. There were no crowds in Red Square, the vast open area under the frowning Kremlin battlements.

The chief indication of anything out of the ordinary was the large number of people in the city's churches. Many flocked to burn candles and pray for Stalin's health after Patriarch Alexei of Moscow and all Russia led special prayers for the Russian chief's recovery.

The medical bulletin from the Kremlin doctors said Stalin's breathing had improved somewhat yesterday after the use of medical drugs but later in the day "grave breathing disturbances recommenced."

The announcement said: "The cerebral hemorrhage in his left brain sector which occurred during the night of 1st-2d of March on the basis of arterio-sclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and hypertonic disease, has resulted, apart from the right side paralysis of the limbs and loss of consciousness, in impairing the trunk section of the brain, accompanied by disturbances in the most important functions of breathing and blood circulation."

ing willingness to confere with Stalin.

He also told newspapermen that it is entirely up to Congress now to work out wording on a resolution condemning Russia for enslaving free peoples.

Eisenhower said there is no rift between himself and Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio over changes made in the resolution the President submitted to Congress.

Taft backed this change, an amendment saying that approval of the resolution condemning Soviet enslavement of peoples did not mean Congress was taking any position on the validity of World War II agreements made with Russia by Democratic administrations. The amendment has stirred up a row in Congress. Democrats are fighting it, shattering administration hopes for unanimity behind the cold war move the resolution represents.

UN Pilots Smash Near Yalu River

SEOUL, (AP) — Allied warplanes unleashed an orgy of fiery destruction over North Korea today. It included a record 1,000-mile round trip fighter-bomber smash within 50 miles of Russia's Siberian border.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said 15 F-84 Thunderjets flying from bases in South Korea, plastered industrial targets near Chongjin, 140 miles from Vladivostok, in the longest fighter-bomber strike of the war.

Other fighter-bombers pounded Communist positions along the quiet, 155-mile battlefield.

Thunderjets followed up the Chongjin strike with an attack on a munitions plant near Suncheon, north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

Sabre jets tangled five times with Communist MIGs, but pilots made no claims of damaging any Red craft.

Navy planes from the carrier Valley Forge blasted the Chongjin No. 1 hydroelectric plant complex, 40 miles northwest of Hamhung on the Korean east coast. Carrier planes blast the area periodically.

There was no mistaking the gravity with which this country viewed the prospective transfer of power in the Soviet Union.

Top officials conferred on the situation all day yesterday. President Eisenhower called an unscheduled meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last night. And the government-wide discussion continued unabated today.

Eden and Dulles planned a conference at the State Department on "political matters," including an urgent review of Soviet-Western relations.

Trouble With Russia Is COP Problem

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Republican problem at the moment is to be consistent with their own past without causing a "crisis" with Russia they can foresee.

At the party on the outside look, they made political capital out of attacks on what they called secret agreements between Republican administrations and Democrats saw eye-to-eye with the being angry at Stalin breaking those agreements. He promised to let the Eastern Europeans choose their own governments but he forced communism on them.

It was not surprising that in political platform last year Republicans summed up much of what they had been saying for years with this promise: "The government of the United States will repudiate all commitments contained in secret understandings such as those at Yalta and Communism—enclave."

It will be made clear, on the authority of the President and Congress, that United States policy, as one of its peaceful purposes, looks happily forward to the genuine independence of those captive peoples.

Since they won, it is up to the Republicans to carry out this campaign pledge.

But after he got into the White House President Eisenhower said he did not know of any agreements still secret in the sense of not being known. Some, he said, were secret in the sense that the Senate had not approved them.

And his administration began to back away from that word "repudiate" now that it had responsibility for what might happen from using it.

If this government, the President and Congress, repudiated some agreements with Russia the Communists might retaliate by repudiating others in a place—Berlin, for instance—which might cause this country grave difficulty.

Eisenhower, still wanting to carry out as much of the campaign pledge as possible while giving hope to the enslaved, suggested to Congress a resolution he would like it to pass.

In part it said: "The U.S. rejects any interpretations or applications of any international agreements or understandings made during the course of World War II, which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples, and further, in proclaiming the hope that the people who have been subjected to the captivity of Soviet despotism shall again have the right to choose the form of government under which they will live, and that sovereign rights of self-government shall be restored to them all."

That was much milder than the Republican platform pledge.

It suited the Democrats in Congress all right, since they were mad at Stalin too, and this kind of resolution didn't criticize the agreements made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

At once some Democrats raised the question: "How can Congress denounce Stalin for breaking agreements which Congress isn't willing to recognize as agreements?"

Worse yet, from the viewpoint of

South Koreans Take Hill in 23-Hour Fight

SEOUL, W.—Valiant South Korean infantrymen regained the top of a bloody outpost hill position on the Central Korean Front today in a thunderous climax to 23 hours of savage close-quarter fighting with an estimated 500 Chinese Reds.

The Republic of Korea troops had pulled back from the outpost at midday and let Allied warplanes turn the hill into a smoking mass of bomb craters and debris.

In late afternoon the Reds counterattacked and forced their way back to the top of the unnamed hill southeast of Kunming.

The Eighth Army briefing officer said the South Koreans counted 30 Chinese dead on the battlefield when the fighting ended just before dark. Another 90 Reds were estimated killed and 90 wounded. That would be a casualty toll of 180—more than one-third of the attack force.

Dalles, who had hoped for unanimity on the resolution, began to look as if the Democrats might vote against the war resolution.

The showdown will come when the Republicans and the extra session of the Senate meet on the Senate floor.

Violence Is Threatened in Movie Deal

HOPE, Ark., March 4.—Peace officers here today over the controversy over the movie "The Reluctant Cinderella," being filmed in this Southwestern New Mexico mining area.

State police were alerted after Sheriff Owen Matthews reported that a group of men at nearby Central had decided to warn makers of the film to "get out by noon or go in black boxes."

The sheriff notified State Police Chief Joe Roach in Santa Fe that the movie makers had been spotted at the meeting to deliver the ultimatum to the movie makers, who have been accused, in Congress, of making the film under Communist auspices.

Matthews asked that state police reinforcements be sent to back up local officers. Roach, a new arrival, said he would have 30 to 40 officers on hand in the area before the noon deadline, and he would be handling them.

The El Paso (Tex.) Times said it talked with several men who attended the meeting, and declining to disclose their names, they said they were vigilantes.

Despite the threat, Clinton Jenkins, international representative of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, which is producing the movie, declared:

"We are not going to back down because of any informal threats. We will be on the job at our usual working schedules."

Sheriff Matthews said he was informed Jenkins would be given this warning.

"You and the leaders of your movie company have until noon to get out of Grant County and go out or you'll go out in black boxes."

The Times said those at the meeting agreed on four conditions: an attack at 4 p. m. if the movie makers have not left by noon.

Yesterday, Jenkins' eye was scratched by an irate citizen who pointed to the movie. He filed a complaint of assault and battery against Earl Lott, stocky 45-year-old vigilante at neighboring Bay.

Lott owned up cheerfully to the charge. He grabbed him by the coat and couldn't get away and let him

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

SATURDAY was a busy day, since the store was opening on Monday. Carol felt too tired to join the others for supper. She changed into a loose cotton housecoat, untied her tired feet into slippers, and was getting herself something to eat when the doorbell rang. She smoothed her hair down with her hands quickly.

"Derek!" she exclaimed, when she opened the door.

He smiled apologetically. "I'm sorry to have arrived so late, but my plane just got in. Peter Quintel told me where to find you. In everything okay?"

"Fine," she said, smiling. "Come along in."

The French windows were open onto the balcony, the sea breeze blew in gently, the room was softly lighted.

"This is quite a place," he said, looking around him.

She nodded. "I like it. I was just cooking supper. Won't you join me?"

"Well, I did eat on the plane, but that was some time ago."

She was going to ask you to come out and have supper with me, but this would be better."

She laid the bridge table, scrambled eggs and grilled frankfurters, made a pot of coffee, and while she worked in the kitchen, she leaned in the doorway, talking about the store, what she thought of the new season's stock, how she liked her fellow employees, her impression of Palm Beach. He didn't mention Thelma.

"You're a good little cook. You'd make some guy a wonderful wife," he said presently.

She laughed at him. "Just because I can cook?"

"No, not just because you can cook." He caught her in his arms and held her closely, kissing her lips. She let him kiss her and was aware again of that sense of physical attraction she'd felt before when she was near him. He was big, handsome, and even when he kissed her—more so when he kissed her—she knew he was nice. He kissed her with a sense of loneliness and frustration that was nagging at her, an ache she couldn't explain, which was non-sensuous, anyway. But presently she slipped out of his arms.

"The frankfurters are scorching. I don't think the most romantic male enjoys burned frankfurters," she said.

"No, a man wants everything, kisses and frankfurters, just done to a turn. Betty Ann's always telling me that men expect the earth," he agreed, grinning.

"How is Betty Ann?" she asked, as she piled the scrambled eggs into the center of a dish and arranged the sausages around them.

"Still goofy about that Felton character. Has he turned up here, by the way?" He asked that overcasually.

She felt oddly embarrassed. She turned away towards the oven to get the warmed plates. "Yes, he's down here on a job."

"You've been seeing much of him?"

She shook her head. "I saw him the day he arrived. He came to report to his boss, Julia Gallet, and I was lunching with her on the beach. And then, the other night, when I was at the patio with a party, he was there with Julie."

Derek raised his dark eyebrows. "Useful when you can bring your chauffeur in to act as your escort. I wonder if he gets paid overtime."

His voice was harsh, unfriendly.

She laughed. "I'll have to ask him!"

She put the supper on the table, but although they chatted pleasantly throughout the meal she felt there was something on his mind, something he wanted to talk to her about, but couldn't bring himself to begin. They were smoking cigarettes over coffee when he leaned both his elbows on the table and said abruptly, "Mind if I talk to you about something pretty personal, Carol?"

"No, no, of course not."

"It's about Thelma—Mrs. Felton. I'm, he hesitated and lit another cigarette, "in a bit of a spot about her."

"Yes?" she asked quietly.

"I like her, or at least I did," he hesitated, "like her very much indeed. She seemed a rather wonderful person and she said she was lonely and unhappy. I did my best to show her a good time, both on the boat and in New York. But she, he hesitated again, his good-looking face coloring in embarrassment, "seems to imagine I was more serious about her than I meant to be."

She remembered what Betty Ann had said: "She's out to marry Derek." Betty Ann had begged her to make a play for him herself. It had seemed a fantastic suggestion at the time, but now it didn't seem so fantastic. He was looking across the table at her now, his dark-grey eyes admiring her and pleading with her to understand.

She asked slowly, "You're not in love with Mrs. Felton?"

He shook his head. "Maybe for a few days I thought I was. I admit I was flattered by her interest in me. She made me feel—well, as though she needed me. I may have said more than I intended to . . . We were at the El Morocco one night, and we'd had drinks and champagne. I thought, if she can keep her head so can I. Frankly, I don't drink much, but a fellow doesn't like to be outdone by a woman." He paused, stubbed out his cigarette and lit another. She noticed that his hand was unsteady.

He cleared his throat and went on nervously. "The next day when I called at the hotel to take her to lunch at the Stork Club she sent down a message for me to come up to the suite. I went up and she threw her arms around my neck."

He blushed as he said it. "She seemed to think," he cleared his throat again, "I'd asked her to marry me the night before."

"And you hadn't, Derek?"

"I hadn't. I swear I hadn't. I may have had a drink or two too many but I know I didn't ask her to marry me. We may have talked marriage. I remember saying that one day she'd make another man as happy as obviously she'd made her husband. The sort of thing a fellow does say."

"I like you said to me that I'd make some man a good wife because I could scramble an egg." Carol smiled. "Only I'm not going to take you up on it, Derek."

"I rather wish you would," he said quietly. "Only that Felton character sticks to my gut. He followed you over here, didn't he? I asked you before if you were in love with him."

"And I said I wasn't," she answered coolly.

"I know, but," she saw his hands clench on the table, "Thelma told me there had been something between you. Everyone at Felton's had been talking about it. I gathered it was chiefly because of you his uncle kicked him out; she said you had admitted to her that he'd visited you in your flat."

Denouncing Russia Won't Affect Pacts

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles agree that a resolution to condemn Russian "enslavement" of other peoples in no way affects World War II big power agreements.

Taft's statement was in reply to Democratic taunts that by revising the wording of the resolution originally submitted by Dulles the Republicans had "emasculated" a cold war propaganda device sought by the President.

Whether it had any legal effect or not, the revision stirred up a lot of Democratic opposition. Thus it may have jeopardized chances for the overwhelming vote Dulles has said it needs to have any propaganda effect.

Taft declared in an interview:

"Both Mr. Dulles and President Eisenhower agree that nothing in the present resolution is intended to affect the validity or the status of whatever it is — of the Yalta agreements in one way or another."

Taft, the Republican Senate leader, would not go so far as to say, however, that Eisenhower and Dulles specifically approve an addition made to the resolution yesterday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

By an 8-6 vote largely on party lines, the committee wrote into the resolution a declaration that its adoption would "not constitute any determination by the Congress as to the validity or invalidity of any of the said agreements or understandings."

This was done over Democratic opposition to satisfy what Taft and Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said were demands — largely from Republicans — that Congress should not affirm the agreements made by Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman at Yalta and other conferences.

"A lot of people denounced the Yalta agreements in the campaign and now don't want to be put in the position of affirming them," Smith said.

Co-op Bill Fails to Gain Approval

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A bill to insure that a rural electric co-operative would never be deprived of territory once assigned it went back to the House without recommendation today.

The Judiciary A Committee decided to let House members make up their own minds after a public hearing which attracted an estimated 200 persons to the House Chamber last night.

The bill is an aftermath of a court fight involving the Arkansas Power and Light Company and the Farmers Electric Co-operative Corporation of Jackson County.

The Arkansas Supreme Court last year decided that an area which farmers had been serving became the territory of AP&L after the section was annexed to the city of Newport, from which AP&L held a franchise.

Under the bill, an area allotted to a co-operative would remain the co-op's territory even though it were annexed to a municipality. Size of the city or town wouldn't

Wants Higher Parity for More Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), who has been one of the chief critics of Secretary of Agriculture Benson's farm views proposed today that high-level price supports be required for additional crops.

He said in a statement that a bill he was introducing would add flaxseed, soybeans, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghums, dairy products, cattle, hogs, poultry and eggs matter.

The bill was introduced by Rep. A. B. Arbaugh of Newton County. Last night's hearing found the municipalities supporting the private utilities in their opposition to the bill.

Mayors Ross Lawton of North Little Rock, Jack Porter of Forrest City, A. J. Russell of Eureka Springs, Harney Chaney of Batesville and several other mayors spoke against the bill.

to the list of commodities that must be supported at no less than 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a price designed to be fair to farmers in terms of things they buy. Under present law, effective through next year, 90 per cent supports are mandatory for wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, rice and peanuts.

Humphrey proposed that this support level be made mandatory through 1957.

Benson has spoken against rigid high-level price supports as a permanent farm policy.

Humphrey also urged that consideration be given to a number of methods for effective support of perishable crops—based largely on improved marketing and increased consumption.

Expressing concern for the consumer as well as the farmer, the senator said, "Abundant farm production is the consumer's only safeguard against soaring retail prices now that price controls are being scuttled."

Aesop, the writer of the fables which bear his name, is supposed to have lived from 620 to 560 B. C. But the name has also applied to a whole class of stories.
